

The Pipeline Revisited – Combing Statistics and Machine Learning

Göran Kauermann

Professor
Department of Statistics
University of Munich

Abstract:

We propose to combining statistics and machine learning to fully exploit the data analysis pipeline. We discuss as example the combination of image analysis and subsequent spatial statistical modelling. We also refer to analyzing massive network data. The talk gives primarily new research ideas that can be extended in various ways.